Activities

During the opening convocation ceremony people line up to carry the traditional flags.

The construction of the new library was a very familiar site to students this year.

Ross Trowbridge, JeeHoon Song, and Marty McNeil try to figure out a way to stop Dracula in the fall play.

Break the Mold

This year, like every year at the University of Dubuque, the students had many different activities for participation in. We had the traditional Homecoming Dance, the fall play, and the Founders Day Ball. One thing that was different on campus this year was all of the construction. The school is in the process of building a new library, and this caused slight problems around campus. The most noticable problems were the closing of Algona Street, and all of the noise that was caused by the construction. Eventaully it will be all worth it becauase the Unversity will have a much better library for the students!

Convocation

The Opening Convocation Ceremony was held on September 14, 1999 in the Westminster Presbyterian Church. This is always a special time of year for the University students. Not only does it symbolize the beginning of a new school year, but Convocation is a time when members of the University Community are recognized for their achievements.

The traditional bagpipes are a symbol of Scotland and the Presbyterian roots of the University.

Library Groundbreaking

The Groundbreaking Ceremony for the new Charles C. Myers Library took place on September 16, 1999. To much of the University community the groundbreaking symbolized a new era at the school. Through the generosity of Dr. Charles C. Myers and his wife, Romona Myers, the University will have a beautiful new facility next fall.

President Jeffrey Bullock and members of the platform officially break the ground for the construction of the new library.

Dr. Charles C. Myers, Board President and alumn J. Bruce Meriwether, and Dubuque Mayor Terry Duggan wait for their turn to speak at the groundbreaking ceremony.

Homecoming

1999

This year was another exciting Homecoming for the UD community. It took place October 15-17. Many of the activities that happen every year took place this year too. There were the Games on the Quad and the PowderPuff Football Game. On Saturday the Football team played William Penn. The traditional dance followed the game. This year's Homcoming was a big success.

Amber Nedland tries to pass on a marshmallow.

One of the Games on the Quad was the Tug of War. The teams pulled with all of their might.

Dracula in Dixie

October 28th thru 30th

The fall play took place October 28th thru the 30th. Performing for a sold out crowd on opening night, and a full house the following two nights, the play catered to the spirit of Halloween. Audience members were encouraged to come dressed up in costumes and a costume contest took place each night after the performance. Prizes were awarded to the winners.

Director Dr. Lisa Ford-Brown put together a stellar production with the help of student directors, Agnes Kress and Lindsay Williams. The play was very well rounded; it not only had a sense of drama and suspense, but also an awesome amount of comic relief which the audience greatly enjoyed.

Lisa Delaney attacks Ross Trowbridge in an attempt to bite him and turn him into a vampire.

Activities Fair

At the beginning of every school year the University of Dubuque holds an activities fair. This is a chance for the new students at the University to look at all the different organizations on campus. This helps the new student to decide what activity is right for them. There are Greek societies, the Student Government Association, the University Program Council and many other activities for students to choose from.

John Harberts, Keith Ray, and Dan Connelly help a student at the University of Dubuque Flight Team table.

Freshman Jessalynn Bertling looks interested in the Gamma's table and is helped by Liz Kuhne and Sara Goodrich.

Freshman Veltra Carter and Carla Asbury just got done checking out the Lambda Tau Delta table together.

Presidential Candidates

Steven Forbes addresses the crowd at the chapel in Blades hall.

George W. Bush waves to the crowd.

Our school played host to two front runners for the 2000 Presidential election.

The two who came were George W. Bush and Steve Forbes. It was a great honor to have both men at our school. Who will be elected as our next President?

George W. Bush speaks in McCormick Gym.

Steven Forbes signs books after his speech in Blades Hall.

Founder's Day 2000

The Fifth Annual Founder's Day Ball was held on April 15, 2000. The location for this year's ball was the Dubuque Inn-Best Western. There was great music played by a D. J., plus hors d'oeuvres were served. The ball was pretty fancy this year. They even had gold fish on the table!

The Lord and Lady of May for 2000 were Josh Britt and Amber Parker. Josh is a senior and Amber is a junior. Amber and Josh were nominated by members of the faculty along with other students and then the students voted on who they wanted to represent them. Congratulations to Amber and Josh! The Founder's Day Ball is not just a dance for students. It is open to everyone at the University. Students, faculty and staff are all invited to come. It gives the students and the professors a chance to see each other outside of class. The Founder's Day Ball is a great tradition at the University of Dubuque.

Freshmen Matt Lansing and Tammy Upmann enjoy the Founder's Day Ball together.

Amber Parker and Josh Britt were named Lady and Lord of May.

Graduation 2000

Doug Clevenger and Andrea Corbin wait in Goldthorp Science Hall before the graduation ceremony.

The class of 2000 walks across campus on the way to commencement ceremonies.

This year graduation was held on May 13, 2000 at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The event was held in the Stoltz Sports Center this year because of poor weather. This year U.S. Senator Charles Grassley was given an honorary degree by the University.

Jamie Tosetti walks up to receive her diploma from President Jeffrey Bullock.

Iowa Senator Charles Grassley is awarded his honorary degree.

Kurt Hartman and John Harberts wait for their names to be called so they receive their diplomas.

Seniors Curtis Blakeman, and Jeanne Allabough, and Jessica Lawent are honored at the Senior Banquet.

Members of the Class of 2000 wait for the start of graduation.

People

Every fall when its time to go back to school it is always nice to know that you can count on some of the same faces being there. You know that the girlfriend whose shoulder you always cry on will be there for your next big tragedy, or the guys that you play football with will always be ready for a game. But it is always nice to get to know the new faces on campus too, and not just the new students. In recent years there has been an increase in the number of new faculty. It is sometimes hard to get used to these new people, but in the end you usually realize all the great things that they can teach you.

SENIORS

For most of the graduates of the University of Dubuque this is the end of four very important years. We have spent the last four years getting to know each other and making new friends, but now it is time for us to move on. Hopefully in the past four years everybody learned a lot and maybe some of the friendships that have been established over the years will continue.

Faculty and Staff

This year it seemed like the students needed the faculty and staff of the University of Dubuque more than ever. With all the different changes going on at the University over the past year, some students had some hard times. Fortunately advisors usually do everything in their power to make sure that their advisees get all the classes that they need. This was just one of the ways that the faculty helped the students this year.

Campus Organizations

Students at the University of Dubuque should never find themselves short of things to do! With a wide variety of organizations on campus, everyone is sure to find one that is right for them. From Greek clubs and campus ministry, environmental groups and to Student Government, students have the chance to step into many different roles. They can be leaders and run for offices or they can just help out at events. So no matter what you like there is a group for you on the University of Dubuque campus.

The Student Government Association faced many new changes this year. Under the leadership of President Agnes Kress, Vice President Marty McNeil, and Secretary Jaci Campbell, SGA had a very productive year. With the help of first semester Treasure Laura Harman and second semester Treasure Alana Ehrler the SGA solved or rerouted any budget concerns that the SGA and other organizations had this year. The main goal of the SGA is to hear and address student concerns and this year they did a great job at it. One example of this is the parking forum that they held. Keep up the good work!

Goodbye Cliff!

Cliff Bunting, the dean of student life, retired this year, after many years of wonderful service at the University of Dubuque. Thanks for everything Cliff and enjoy your retirement!

University Staff

One group of people who cannot be overlooked are the staff of the University of Dubuque. They provide great support to both the faculty and the students. The staff help to improve the life on campus in many ways. Cliff Bunting, the dean of student life, always seems to play a role in very event that the school has. If there is a play or special musical event you can rest assured that Cliff will be there making things run smoothly. Members of the staff are also there to help keep the students entertained while on campus. On example of this is Mark Heitkamp, the director of student activities. If you are bored at UD, go talk to Mark and he can find a great group for you to join. With the students, faculty, and staff working together, it makes the University of Dubuque a great place.

Alan Crandall, the leader of campus ministry is always ready to help any student. Here he is walking accross the campus.

Ireland:

A trip to be remembered

This year during spring break a handful of students from the University of Dubuque got to experience something really unique. From March 4 to March 13 this group got to travel to Ireland. It was a great cultural learning experience for all who were involved. The first half of the trip was spent learning about the urban life in Dublin, while the second half of the trip was spent in the country. The students got to see many different historical landmarks including castles and cathedrals. One day the students even travelled to the English part of Ireland to learn more about the religious wars that have taken place there in the past and continue on even today. It is always a good idea to see how others live so you can open up your mind to different cultures.

A group of University of Dubuque students sits at a typical Irish pub.

Campus Ministry

Campus Ministry is a very important organization on the University of Dubuque Campus. This organization lets people of all religious backgrounds come together for fellowship and worship. Campus Ministry sponsors many different activities. One of the most important events that Campus Ministry has is the Campus Chapel, which is held every Tuesday morning at 9:30. Another event that Campus Ministry holds is Sunday Nite Live, which is held in the cafeteria and provides a free dinner to all who come. Campus Ministry also sponsors the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. They meet regularly on Sunday nights and sometimes hold events for all three colleges to attend, giving the student a great opportunity to meet people from other schools. Campus Ministry is a great organization to have on campus.

Students and faculty gather in front of the Alumni Hall after chapel.

International Friendship Club

The International Friendship Club went on a trip to Minneapolis in April. It was a chilly trip because of all the snow!

The year end picnic for the International Friendship club was held at Eagle Point Park in Dubuque.

Greek Life

One very important part of life on a college campus is the Greek community. This is no different at the University of Dubuque. Greek organizations provide a great opportunity for students to get to know one another very well.

When you become a member of a Greek organization it is almost like you are getting a new family. The people who are involved in Greek organizations also like to share with other members of the college community. Every year the Greek Council holds a casino night for all members of the University of Dubuque Campus.

Zeta Phi Pledges, Liz Carroll and Sara Simm give each other a hug following hell week.

One way that the A's express their brotherhood is by having their own intramural football team.

Lambda Tau Delta

The pledge class of 2000 for the Lambda's takes a break during the hectic hell week.

The Lambda Tau Delta Sorority is a sorority that is committed to nourishing the improvement of the community and the University through voluntary measures and the benefit of its members. We had a very good year. Once again this year we continued to grow and develop. This year we inducted four new members into our sorority. In addition, this was our first full year that we were considered to be an actual sorority with no restrictions. It was great! We participated in multiple community service projects during the year. A few of our off campus volunteer projects were volunteering at the Humane Society, helping with a Make-A-Wish Foundation's fundraiser, walking in the Crop Walk for the hungry, and selling daffodils for the Cancer Foundation.

Athenaeans

The Athenaeans are the brothers of the Lambda Tau Delta's. They share many activities throughout the school year. The A's focus a lot on brotherhood and participate in many different events.

The Athenaeans all gather for a picture following pledging.

The event that the A's always take place in is the intramural football league. Having their own team helps to build brotherhood.

Zeta Phi

The Zeta Phi sorority was founded on May 2, 1923. Our colors are blue and white, our flower is the sunburst rose, and our mascot is the bunny. This year we had nine members with two pledging in the Spring. Our two advisors are Teresa Brahm and Lisa Ford-Brown.

We did three community service projects which consisted of trick or treating for canned food, the Greek Council blood drive, and we helped with CAFE Ministry by serving food for the homeless and the needy.

Throughout the year, the Zetas do several inter-social activities. In the fall we hold our annual Homecoming Tea with alumni. In the Spring we have our annual formal. This gives us all a chance to dress up, go out to eat, and it gives us the opportunity to just be with our sisters. In the summer we hold a reunion for all members.

Organizational Outlooks

Sports Superstars

This year the sporting scene at the University of Dubuque was a little more positive than in past years. Not only did the football and basketball teams look better, but the volleyball team had a great year. They almost made it to the NCAA finals. Hopefully all of our teams will keep improving and they will be even better next year.

Spartan Volleyball

The Spartan Volleyball team had an outstanding year. Most people felt that this year's team was good enough to go to the NCAA playoff, but unfortunately the team didn't get a bid. Even so, we are still proud of our girls. Two key players for the Spartans this year were Sara Gassmann and Janene Doddema. Both of the girls broke the records that they had set the year before. We should be proud of all the women on the team!

Spartan Baseball

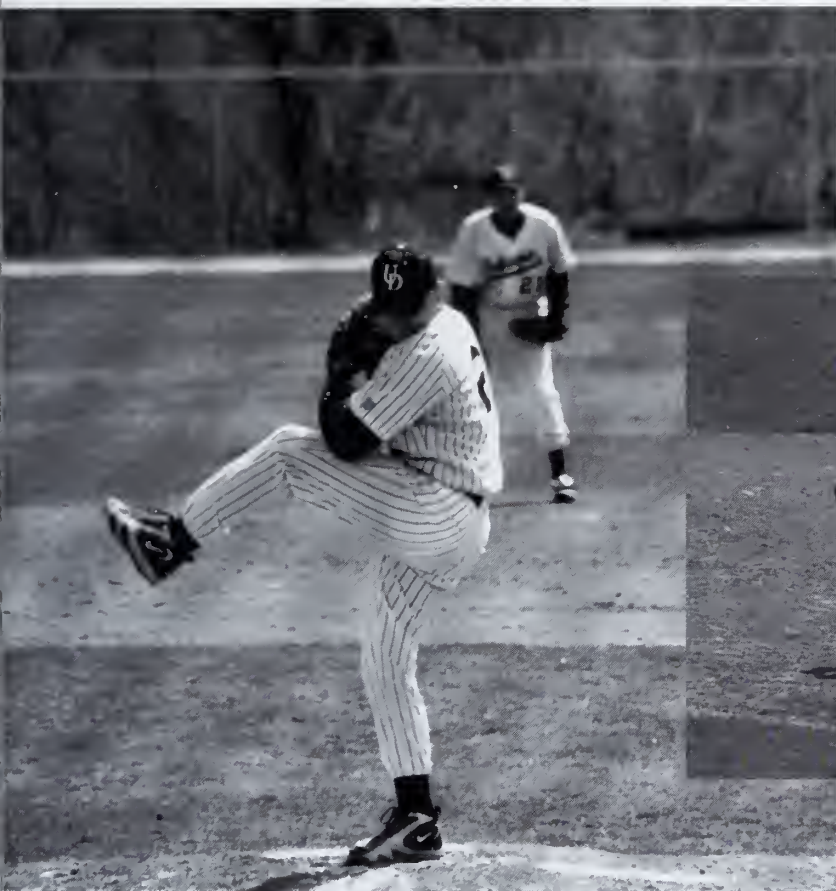

The University of Dubuque men's baseball team had a tough season with a win loss record of 12-27-1. For their annual spring trip, they traveled to Florida, where they participated in several games with other traveling college teams. The Spartans look forward to a terrific 2001 season, with several returning starters which includes most of the Spartan pitching staff.

Spartan Softball

This year was another fun and exciting year for the University of Dubuque softball team. At the beginning of their spring season they headed to Florida along with the men's baseball team. Once there, they competed with teams from all over the country. This got the women prepared for their season.

Spartan Cheerleaders

The Cheerleaders again supported the fall sports to no end this season. There was, however, a new member of the squad. The Spartan Mascot was initiated during the Homecoming Pep-Rally on October 16th. The only problem is that the Spartan does not have an official name. Spartan Spirit Club sponsored a contest to see what kinds of names the student body could come up with.

(Above) Spartans score! The Cheerleaders performed the traditional high kicks after points had been scored.

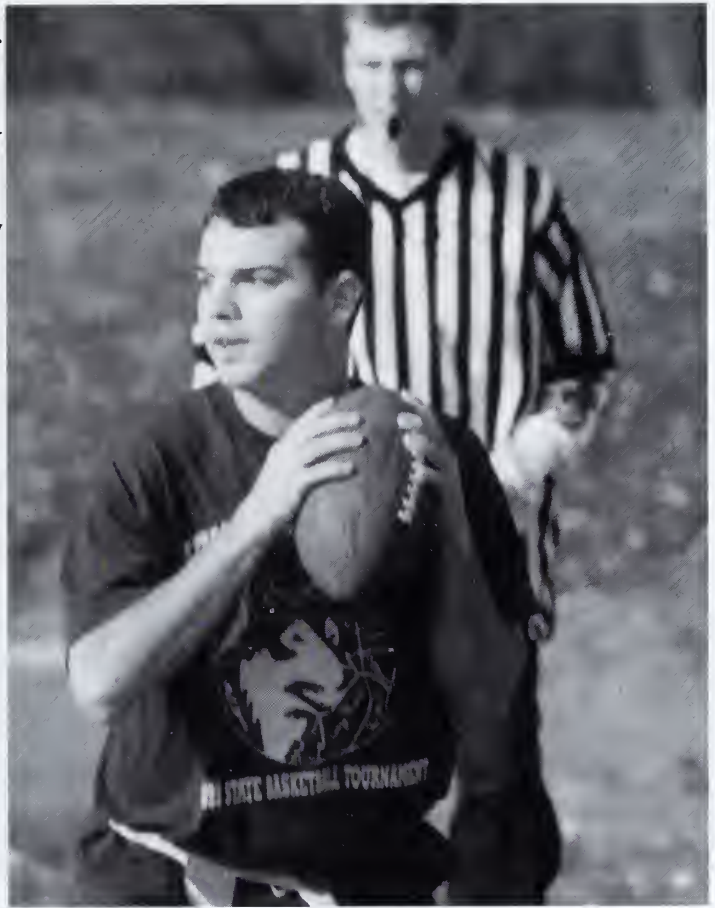

Intramurals

Intramurals are an important part of college life.

They give the students who aren't able to participate on a team for the school a chance to show their stuff.

The intramurals champion volleyball team.

Once again another school year closes at the University of Dubuque. I hope that everyone here had as great of a year as I did. Since I am graduating this year I finally realized how much I will miss this place when I am gone. All of the hard work over the years was worth it. Thanks for all of the great memories!
